Q9 Currently, North Carolina law requires that sex education be taught in 7th-, 8th-, and 9th-grade health classes. Sex education is defined as age-appropriate information on healthy relationships, abstinence, and condoms and birth control as ways to prevent pregnancy and sexually transmitted diseases. Parents can decide whether or not to let their children participate. Do you favor or oppose teaching sex education as described, if parents have to give permission for their child to participate?

Q11 Every state has a law that lets minors talk to a doctor without parental permission for certain reasons. In North Carolina, these reasons include pregnancy prevention, STD testing, mental health, or substance abuse. Parental permission is still needed for abortion or hospitalization. The reason for this law is to protect youth in cases of rape, incest, or abuse and to increase the chances that teens can get the health care they need. As a way to keep teens healthy and safe, do you think this law is very important, somewhat important, not very important, or not important at all?
